Representative Matters; e.g.:

1. FIAT v. Suriname, 88 Civ. 6639 (SDNY Oct. 11, 1989) (advocate; motions to confirm/vacate arbitral award).

2. Medical device manufacturer v. Patentholder (arbitrator in multimillion dollar patent dispute).
3. Arbitration of clauses in an asset purchase agreement involving two manufacturers. Claims involved misrepresentation of assets, shortage of inventory and failure of due diligence. Served as Chair of Panel, with a demand of over $27,000,000.
4. Dispute over a distributorship agreement of a newly developed farm product. Distributor claimed principal misrepresented product and principal claimed distributor made false statements to consumers, harming its reputation. Involved 13 distributorships and over $60,000,000 between claims and counterclaims. I served as Chair of the Panel.
5. International arbitration involved a US and Canadian Company that entered into a manufacturing agreement. I served as sole arbitrator over a $25,000,000 claim.
6. Construction of a hospital in Kentucky serving with a Panel. Dispute was between contractor, architect and subcontractors regarding interference with the construction schedule by other subcontractors, poor architectural drawings, delay in providing change orders and delays in payment. Involved multimillion dollar claims.

| | | | | |

b. Statement of Philosophical Approach to Mediation

Depending on the relationship between the parties and the scope of the dispute one style may be employed or several different styles may be used within a single mediation. The facilitative style is used most often and it is complimented with factors traditionally used by the other styles. This style provides a structure that both the mediator and the parties can use to test the procedure as it progresses. Having joint sessions, as well as, caucuses as needed permits the parties to express their needs and concerns and to educate the other party. The evaluative style comes into play while the facilitative style is being used, when the mediator will highlight the strengths and weaknesses of a disputant's position so that the disputants will be forced to do a "reality check" on their reasoning. The transformative style tends to focus on the needs, interests, values and points of view of the parties. And consideration of these factors may transform the relationship of the parties. For this reason, as a mediator, a determination must be made as to which style or combination of styles will best fit the needs of the particular mediation. The mediator must use all the methods and skills available in order to permit the parties to arrive at a satisfactory outcome. Limiting the mediation process to one style is putting form over substance.

c. List ARBITRATOR Skills Training Sessions you have taken

| Sponsoring Organization & Location | Skills Emphasized | % of Time Spent in Role-Plays/Exercises | Year Taken | Duration: Hours of training |
