CPR ANNOUNCES WINNERS OF ITS 34TH ANNUAL ACADEMIC AWARDS

Coral Gables, FL (March 02, 2017) – The International Institute for Conflict Prevention and Resolution (CPR), a global non-profit organization that advances dispute resolution practices and provides high quality dispute resolution solutions, announced its 34th Annual Academic Awards for Outstanding Scholarship in dispute resolution. The Awards will be presented at a ceremony on March 2 at The Biltmore Hotel in Coral Gables, Miami.

Awards criteria focus on processes, techniques, systems, commitment and scholarship, which address the resolution, prevention or creative management of major disputes.

Outstanding Professional Articles – The Award for Outstanding Professional Article recognizes articles published by academics and other professionals that advance understanding in the field of ADR. This year, the award was granted to:

- Winner: Hal Abramson, Nelson Mandela as Negotiator: What Can We Learn from Him? 31 Ohio St. J. on Dispute Resolution 1 (2016)
- Short Article: Ben Giaretta, Project Management in International Arbitration, 3 McGill J. of Dispute Resolution 66 (2016-17)

Joseph T. McLaughlin Original Student Article Award – The Joseph T. McLaughlin Student Article Award, endowed through the year 2021 in honor of Joseph T. McLaughlin – a former CPR Board member, long-time CPR supporter and prolific advocate for effective conflict resolution practices as a practitioner, academic, writer and speaker – recognizes an article or paper written by a student that was focused on events or issues in the field of ADR.

Y-ADR Annual Writing Award - 2016 Y-ADR Annual Writing Award for Efficient & Effective Collaboration Between Corporate Counsel and Outside Counsel was open to lawyers ages 45 or younger or those who have had fewer than eight years of professional experience in alternative dispute resolution (ADR) practice, including, but not limited to, as counsel, client, arbitrator, mediator, tribunal secretary or law clerk.

- Winner: Jared Hubbard, “Charting a Course for Success: The Importance of An
“We congratulate our award winners and are grateful for their contributions to creativity and innovation in the field of dispute prevention and resolution,” said Noah Hanft, CPR CEO & President. “It was very difficult to choose among such excellent examples of thought leadership, and we commend all the contributors for their continued work to raise the visibility of ADR.”
