

Dana C. MacGrath

Counsel, International Arbitration and Litigation
Sidley Austin LLP
787 Seventh Avenue
New York, NY 10019
dmacgrath@sidley.com

DANA MACGRATH is in the international arbitration and litigation group at Sidley Austin LLP based in the New York office. Her practice focuses on international arbitration and also involves international litigation matters. Recent international arbitration matters have involved a variety of business and industries, including for example oil and gas, LNG, finance, joint ventures and international investment vehicles. She also serves as arbitrator. In the context of international litigation, she has experience in representing parties regarding the enforceability of arbitration agreements and arbitral awards under the New York Convention. She is recognized as a leading practitioner of international arbitration in Chambers USA 2012: America's Leading Lawyers for Business: "Dana MacGrath is noted for her experience in commercial arbitration and wins acclaim for her work serving a range of clients in complex disputes. Sources attest to her expertise and credit her as being 'extremely hardworking and very smart.'" Dana is also recognized as a leading practitioner in Expert Guide's Guide to the World's Leading Experts in Commercial Arbitration 2013.

Ms. MacGrath is an adjunct professor of law at Brooklyn Law School, where she teaches a seminar on international commercial arbitration and coaches the Brooklyn Vis Moot team. She is a member of the International Commercial Disputes Committee of the New York City Bar Association and organizes its annual Vis Moot Practice Session. She writes and speaks frequently on the subject of international dispute resolution.