

Katie Wilcock
Legal Counsel – Bechtel

Katie is a central member of Bechtel's Oil, Gas & Chemicals legal team based in the business unit's London office. Since joining Bechtel in November 2013, Katie has advised on a range of predominantly non-contentious matters taking the lead on various prospects, proposals and projects in the EMEA region.

Katie trained as a solicitor at leading international law firm Slaughter and May, qualifying into and working in the Commercial Real Estate Department as a property and construction solicitor. Following an earlier secondment to a prominent New Zealand law firm whilst training, Katie was later seconded to work for Lend Lease on site at the Athletes' Village for the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games. Subsequently, Katie joined Lend Lease as legal counsel where she was involved on a variety of public and private sector construction projects in the United Kingdom.

Katie has a first class honours degree in History from Royal Holloway, University of London and completed her Graduate Diploma in Law and Legal Practice Course at Nottingham Law School.